Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on September 8, 1999

EXAMPLE--You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, September 8, 1999

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any ridiculous bids.

- 19A. CIVIL WARS; 68 AD, Aureus, Spain, 7.45g., BM-12 note, Paris-9, C-430 (400 Fr.). Obv: LIBERTAS RESTITUTA Bust of Libertas r. Rx: Shield inscribed SPQR within oak wreath; at top, globe between two stars. Extremely rare: only the fifth or sixth specimen recorded. The four others that certainly exist are: (1) Paris-9, 7.55g; (2) Berlin, 7.60g; (3) BMC-12 note, pl. 49.25, 7.45g (wrongly stated to be the Paris specimen); (4) M&M XXI, 1960, 24, 7.45g. In addition, BMC-12 note records a specimen in Gotha, 7.48g; this might be the same as (3) or (4) above (since the Gotha collection was looted in 1945, and the 0.03g difference in the reported weights might just be due to different scales) or could be a new specimen. For lists and illustrations of these coins, see also P.-H. Martin, Die anonymen Muenzen des Jahres 68 n. Chr., no. 90, pl. 8 and E.P. Nicholas, De Neron a Vespasien, p. 1449, no. 55, pl. XII (who also lists and illustrates an "aureus" in Copenhagen which according to Martin is in fact a denarius). Our coin is apparently from a new die pair, not shared with any of the aurei or denarii of this type illustrated by Nicholas, Martin, or BMC. SOLD

Two denarii of Brutus are closely connected to our coin: Crawford 503/1 uses an exactly similar head of Apollo as obverse type, and Crawford 501/1 shows a lyre and a filleted branch on reverse, like the Lycian hemidrachm. After conquering Lycia, then, Brutus struck there not only Lycian League hemidrachms like our coin, but also Roman denarii using the same or similar coin types and in one case the same engravers. Obv-Three hoplites in galley left; galley has horse's head at prow, griffin's head at stern; below, hippocamp left, Rx-Vulture with spread wings standing left on back of recumbant lamb incuse with head turned back. In our culture the vulture means death. In the ancient Phoenician culture and the Egyptian culture, from which the Phoenicians borrowed this unique type, comes the real meaning of this exquisite and rare coin: the vulture is the symbol of the Goddess Nekhbet and is a symbol of protection and power. The short-horned ram with horns close to the head represents the god Amon Re, a symbol of power and military strength (beginning in the 18th Dynasty). Taken in combination, this coin type means protection, power twice or double power and military strength, and that is reinforced by the obverse which shows three hoplites totally armed in a war galley going into battle with one of the denizens of the sea. Of this coin there are less than 20 specimens in existence, and in this offering you are seeing one of the three best. EF 14650	268/11. Dio Cassius records that the senate built a triumphal arch to celebrate Augustus' recovery of lost Roman standards from the Parthians in 19 BC; the arch was located beside the temple of Divus Julius Caesar in the Forum according to a scholiast on Vergil. Footings for a triple arch like that depicted on our coin have indeed come to light on the southwest side of that temple, and a number of architectural fragments found in the vicinity probably also derive from this arch. Rx: VIRTUS AVGG Emperor on horseback r. riding down and spearing two enemies, officina B=2. Very rare reverse type. The four specimens known to Bastien (Oxford, Copenhagen, two in Vienna) are all from the same reverse die; our coin is also from that reverse die, and from the same obverse die as one of the specimens in Vienna (Bastien pl. Rx: PACATOR ORBIS The emperor as "Bringer of Peace to the World" stepping r. holding spear and shield, attacking fallen enemy; officina C=3. Only the fourth known specimen of this very rare reverse type, and from the same die pair as the other three, which are (1) BM, (2) Peus 270, 1969, 388 = Trau Sale, 1935, 3182, presumably the same specimen as that reported by Cohen from Rollin, and (3) CNG 50, 1999, 1668. Obv weakly struck. MS 400

545. NUMERIAN; 283-284 AD, Antoninianus, Rome, 3.63g., RIC-422 (C), C-121 (5 Fr.). Rx: VNDIQVE VICTORES Emperor standing l. holding globe and scepter, seated at his feet with their hands tied behind their backs are a bare-headed western captive and an eastern captive wearing Phrygian cap; officina S=6. This reverse legend calls the emperors "victors everywhere" on the basis of Numerian's participation in Carus' Persian campaign and Carinus' victories over the rebel Julianus (dating his revolt to 283 not 284 AD) and the Quadi. Rx: DECVR SIO (no S C) Nero on horse prancing r., accompanied by a second horseman. Very rare: only the fourth recorded specimen with this reverse type in Nero's small first issue of bronze coins without S C, and the second recorded with this exact obverse legend and bust type. The other exactly similar coin, from the same reverse die, is in the Gneecchi collection at the National Museum in Rome; the two variant specimens, with CLAVD rather than CLAVDIVS in the obverse legend and the portrait with aegis rather than without aegis, are in BM ex Naville II, 1922, 323, and in Madrid (MacDowall-80). The DECVR SIO type in which Nero on horseback is accompanied by two footsoldiers rather than a second horseman, in contrast, is one of the commoner types in this scarce issue without S C, which probably lasted for only a month or two and was soon superseded by a new issue of bronze coins with S C. The absence of the aegis on our obverse die and that of the Gneecchi coin is exceptional and could indicate that they are among the earliest dies of the issue; MacDowall only records one other right-facing sestertius obverse die of this issue without aegis (p. 52, A120), and the aegis was a constant feature of right-facing sestertius portraits in Nero's next two issues, up to 66 AD. Rx: QVADRAGENS VMA REMISSA S C Triumphal arch surmounted by statues of two riders on horses prancing l.. The reverse legend means "The remission of the fortieth" and seems to refer to Galba's remission of the 2 1/2% customs duty for Spain and Gaul. The rare Spanish-mint asses bearing this legend normally show an officer escorting three prisoners through the arch, presumably revenue officers of Nero who had plundered the provinces and were punished by Galba at the beginning of his reign. Our coin without the prisoners is by far the rarer of the two variants, probably known in only a couple of specimens apart from that in Paris; the British Museum, Trau, and Ryan collections, for example, lacked this variant, though they had the variant with prisoners. Obv and Rx-CERES S-C, Ceres standing left, draped and veiled, holding wheat ears and long torch.. Our reverse dies might also have been engraved for Faustina I during her lifetime (BM Pl. 24.8) or for Faustina II under Marcus Aurelius (BM Pl. 74.5), but the stylistic match with these coins seems less close. Cf. BMC, pp. cvi-cvii: "The curious pieces with two obverse or two reverse types combined begin to occur not infrequently in this reign (Trajan) - the two reverses definitely less often than the two obverses. They have not yet been explained. They seem to be not absolutely accidental, but something in the nature of trial pieces or presentation pieces at the mint." Such coins are always asses, and those combining two reverse types are extremely rare, the British Museum possessing only five examples: 2 Trajan (nos. 1077 A-B, Pl. 44,3), and 1 each of Hadrian (no. 1841B), Faustina II under Marcus Aurelius (no. 1005), and Commodus (no. 727, pl. 111,8). Coins with two obverse types have not infrequently been manufactured by modern forgers, but our specimen with two reverses is finely preserved, evenly patinated, and unquestionably ancient and authentic. 653. MARCUS AURELIUS AS CAESAR; 139-161 AD, Unique copper medallion, Rome, 159 AD, 48.65g., NAC Auction I, 1999, 2039 (this coin); otherwise unpublished. Obv: AVRELIVS CAES ANTON AVG PII F Bust draped and cuirassed r., head bare. Rx: Marcus as Apollo standing l., holding out laurel branch to serpent entwined around tripod before him. Marcus has curly hair as in the obverse portrait, may also be bearded, and is naked apart from a cloak over his l. shoulder, which is wrapped around his l. arm and held in his l. hand, falling from there almost to the ground. Left of the tripod and above it, a tree in which a raven is perched; to r., a statuette of Artemis standing l. alongside her stag, set atop a plinth which bears the inscription in four lines, TR P[O] / T XIII / COS / II. Elaborate new reverse type of Marcus Aurelius Caesar as Apollo, with curly hair which identifies the figure as Marcus, holding Apollo's laurel branch and accompanied by Apollo's tripod, serpent, raven, and a statuette of Apollo's sister Artemis and her stag. Artemis stands in a stiff archaic pose, extending her right hand to stroke the

- head of her stag, which is turned back towards her; an identical group of Artemis and her stag had been used as a complete reverse type on a medallion of Antoninus Pius struck between 140 and 144 AD (Gnecchi, Medaglioni II, pl. 43,7). Lest it interfere with the type, the reverse legend giving Marcus' tribunician and consular numbers has been accommodated as an inscription on the plinth bearing the statuette of Artemis; though the legend is weak, the reading of the tribunician number as "XIII" is certain. An unpublished medallion reverse type, and also from a previously unknown medallion obverse die: only six bronze medallions of Marcus Caesar with this obverse legend had hitherto been recorded, all now in European museum collections, showing five other reverse types dated to 157, 158, and 159 AD and struck from three obverse dies that are all different from that of our coin (Gnecchi 41-44, pl. 62, 3-6). Different in reverse type and obverse die from the only previously recorded medallion of Marcus in 159, Gnecchi pl. 62,6. Struck in reddish copper rather than yellow orichalcum. Really wonderful unique medallion. While the obv has some unpleasant pitting, the rev looks like a 19th Century romantic painting. F/VF 9500

Rx: P M TR P XVI COS III P P S C Arched bridge with fence along its side and roof supported by beams, across which five figures are passing; at each end of bridge, triumphal arch with three passageways below and facing five-horse chariot on top; each chariot is led by a figure standing alongside the innermost horse, and each carries three passengers (Severus, Caracalla, and Geta) whose heads only are seen above the horses; below bridge, waves and boat rowed by two oarsmen. Rare: this is the 31st specimen recorded in C.L. Clay's unpublished die catalogue of Severan bronze coins, these 31 coins coming from five obverse and only three reverse dies. The same reverse type also appears on a unique aureus in Paris (C-521) and a unique sestertius now in BM ex Schw. Bankverein Zurich 28, 1991, 611; the bronze medallion of this type in Paris (C-522 with illustration, Gnecchi II pl. 93,1) appears to be false. This bridge is reminiscent in many ways of the famous coin type of Trajan depicting his Danube bridge, but unfortunately we do not know where the Severan bridge was located or why it was depicted on the coins early in 208 AD. 698. JOVIAN; 363-364 AD, AE 1, Thessalonica, 8.68g., RIC-238 (R), officina 4. Emperor wears rare rosette diadem combined with laurel leaves, cited by RIC only from two sale catalogues. Olive patina. About EF 750
699. VALENTINIAN I; 364-375 AD, AE 1, Constantinople, 364-7 AD, 8.31g., RIC-15 (R3), officina 3; C-30 (40 Fr.). Rx: RESTITVTOR REIPVBLICAE Emperor standing holding labarum and Victory on globe. Olive patina. EF 550
700. PROCOPIUS; 365-366 AD, AE 3, Constantinople, 2.60g., RIC-17b (R3) var. Rx: REPARATIO FEL TEMP CONSA Emperor standing holding labarum and shield, indeterminate object at his feet, Christogram and palm branch in fields. Very rare issue of Procopius at Constantinople with palm branch in reverse field. This issue was unknown to Banduri (1718), nor is it in Voetter's Gerin catalogue (p. 106), the Glasgow or Mazzini catalogues, or the Berk photo file. RIC-17b, which is presumably the source of Late Roman Bronze Coinage 2084, alleges that coins of Procopius with the palm branch from officinae 3 and 5 are in Vienna, but this is an error according to the Keeper of the Vienna collection Dr. G. Dembski, who has kindly checked for us: this issue of Procopius is in fact missing from the great Vienna collection too. The emergence of our palm branch coin of officina 4 suggests that those of officinae 3 and 5 reported by RIC may well exist, but we do not know where. According to RIC the coins of officinae 3 and 5 lack the indeterminate object at the emperor's feet, but this too is perhaps only an error, since the object is certainly present on our coin of officina 4. In sum an unrecorded officina variant in a very rare and poorly documented issue of Procopius at Constantinople, and an important addition to our knowledge of the scarce coinage of this usurper. EF 1150
701. PROCOPIUS; 365-366 AD, AE 3, Heraclea, 3.21g., RIC-7 (R2), C-9 (30 Fr.), Sear-4123. Rare issue with pellet in left field of reverse, quoted by RIC-7 note for officina 3 only from a manuscript note by Koblit, citing Voetter. F 250
702. "VALEODOSIUS", DIE CUTTER'S ERROR; AE-3, Antioch, 379-383 AD, 2.30g., Cf. RIC-45a (Valentinian II) and 45d (Theodosius I). Meant to be a coin of Valentinian II, but having engraved D N VALE the engraver erroneously thought that the emperor in question was Theodosius I, so continued ODOIVS P F AVG. Highly unusual error. In earlier times, someone might have made this into a new emperor 300
703. SPINTRIA; AE 22, c. 22-37 AD, 4.65g., Buttrey, Spintriae, Num. Chron. 1973, Scene 3, pl. 3 (same die). Obv: A man kneeling l. making love to a woman reclining on a couch; he fondles her breasts with his r. hand and supports her r. leg with his l. hand; footstool under couch, drapery hanging in background. Rx: Numeral VII within circle of dots and laurel wreath. Possibly a new type combination. Buttrey records this Scene 3 only in combination with the numerals V and XIII. The numeral VII, on the other hand, Buttrey found combined only with erotic Scene 6 and with twelve different portrait or genre-scene obverse types. Pierced in ancient times, otherwise F 1450
704. SPINTRIA; AE 20, c. 22-37 AD, 5.19g., Buttrey, Spintriae, Num. Chron. 1973, Scene 7. Obv: A woman reclining r. on her front on a couch, supporting her upper body on her l. elbow and looking back l. at a man who is making love to her; the man holds the woman's thigh with his r. hand, and the woman holds the man's arm above the elbow with her r. hand; a footstool and drapery are seen under the couch, and additional drapery hangs in l. background. Rx: Numeral II within circle of dots and laurel wreath. Our obverse is from a different die than the specimen illustrated by Buttrey, pl.3,7. This scene was not known to Buttrey in combination with the numeral II on reverse (p. 60). VF 2200

SCULPTURE

922. Marble Statue of Asklepios, Roman, 2nd cent. AD, This statue of Asklepios as Zeus is from the time of Hadrian. It's white, extremely fine grained marble with blue-black veining attests to the fact that it comes from one of the ancient world's most famous marble sources and sculpting center, Aphrodesias. So well preserved and carefully created is this figure that its elegance can be observed from every angle. The garment which Asklepios wears is more highly polished than his skin, indicating the cloth to be silk or fine linen. In the Second century, AD, in Asia Minor, the only important male god was Asklepios. Hadrian, entering upon a great building program at Pergamon, which was a center for the worship of Asklepios, wanted to reestablish the worship of Zeus. As a part of his objective at that moment in time, he merged the two gods, with the father-god, Zeus, having the healing powers of Asklepios as well as his traditional stance. This is reflected in this statue. A European professor, whose life study is Asklepios, inspected photos of this statue, and states that the entire left side of this figure represents a type of Asklepios known from Pergamon at the time of Hadrian. The remains of a thunderbolt on the right side indicate Zeus. This is a rare find from this highly important period and this statue is the only known example which features the dynamic dual personae of Zeus on one side of the figure and Asklepios on the other. This statue itself was worshiped probably for its healing qualities as indicated by light inscriptions on his chest in Latin. Like other great works of ancient art this one has traveled. Created in Aphrodesias, it likely was transported to Rome when it was originally finished. H. 58". 325,000
